SUN BEAMS

by WALTER M. BARRETT

Under our present system, the authority for various governmental agencies in Truckee is divided among several separate boards embracing nearly a score of members. Sometimes these various groups, unaware of action contemplated by others, work at cross purposes and as a result fail to accomplish the desired and incur unnecessary expense to the taxpayers. There are few voters who can, without reference, name off all the members of these boards and no doubt there are some at least who cannot name all the boards. We believe that better results could be obtained if our local government was more centralized so that when a project was proposed it could be handled expediently. Costs could be reduced and work could be carried on much more effectively. We are not, at this time, criticizing the existing boards. In their own limited capacity they are probably doing as well as they can. But we are taxed separately for each of these governing groups, who are permitted to have charge of our various duties without question. Wouldn't it be more business like to merge these various boards into a city council, whose powers are probably no greater than any of the separate bodies, and with a central point of government, working for a common good, concentrate our efforts on the community as a city rather than as individuals? We believe it would.

We believe Truckee is the best town in the country, but you can't wish us harm for hoping it gets better.

One of the best ways to make a town better is to have sufficient faith in it to get out and boost at every opportunity. Boost yourself, your neighbor and your community and all three will profit. Knock any one of the three and all three will suffer.

Did you ever stop to think that when you make purchases out of town that you are helping to build a town in which you have no particular interest? Why not help strengthen your town by patronizing the merchants who are called upon and expected to contribute largely to the support of your community. This is especially applicable when you can do so without monetary losses.

With spring in the air (we hope) and the roads in excellent condition, there is a tendency on the part of most drivers to "let 'er out." If everyone gets the same idea, trouble may ensue, so this weekend when you drive, be careful!

Local Ranger Isolated After Painful Injury

Hobart Snider Hurts Self On French Meadow Trip.

BACK ON SATURDAY

Aid Sent to Cabin Where Ranger is Alone With Hurt Leg

Forest service officials told Mrs. H. I. Snider last night that there was not much hope of having her husband, the local district ranger, back to receive medical treatment for an injured ankle suffered on a snow survey trip into isolated French Meadows before Saturday.

Headed by Ranger John Hodgson of Big Bend, a crew of expert skiers and first aid men left yesterday for the ranger cabin, nearly 20 miles from the nearest highway back of Soda Springs, to bring the injured man out. It was not known whether he suffered a broken ankle or a bad fracture.

Snider's two companions on the trip, Ernest Baxter of Nevada City and Quentin Queen of Norden, were unfamiliar with first aid so provided Snider with all the necessities and skied back to seek assistance. They arrived Tuesday night at The Cedars.

They reported they placed Snider's cot as close to the fire as safety allowed and arranged so he could reach fuel. The shelter is a specially designed building for such emergencies and is stocked with emergency rations, blankets and fuel.

Snow depths range from three to six feet in level places to many times that amount in drifts over the entire meadow and in the country between. Temperatures at night hover around zero.

Baxter said Snider's ski caught in a piece of brush and in his fall his leg was wrenched badly, although probably not fractured.

Associate Forester Leland Smith, Ranger Hodgson, and Elwood Stone were joined by the expert skiers at Soda Springs and before sunup were well into the wild North Fork Canyon. They were to be joined at The Cedars, nine miles from Soda Springs, by Baxter and Queen.

In removing Snider, the party is expected to follow a longer but easier route by way of the Lost Emigrant Mine.

"It will be impossible for the party to bring Snider out to Cisco before tomorrow noon," Ellis said. "There was a ten inch fall of new snow during the night and the terrain is very difficult even for the most expert of skiers."

Ellis said that because of the rough country and soft snow it is impractical to use one of several snow tractors available in the Norden, Soda Springs and Sugar Bowl areas.

MEEKS BAY CLUB IS PLANNING DANCE ON APRIL 19 IN TRUCKEE

by MRS. PEARL HELLER

The guests were W. M. Englehart, Sr., W. M. Englehart, Jr., Douglas Barrett and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barrett, all of Truckee. Preceding the meeting the group enjoyed a delicious pot-luck supper. As it was the eve of All-Fools' Day, jokes were "planted" at the guests' places at the table where much hilarity ensued.

At the meeting plans were made for the Carnival Dance to be held in Truckee at the American Legion Hall on April 19. The general committee named were Charlie Heller, Roy Stark, Floyd Carnell, Nile Luke and Ray Frasier. This dance promises to be one of the biggest events of the season in this community. We have engaged "Yodeling Johnny" Blaisdell and his variety band of radio station KFBK, Sacramento. There will be special entertainment features and favors.

It was decided by a unanimous vote of the members to continue to meet on Monday nights, as it is an established custom and recorded in the club's recently revised by-laws.

Tahoe Lands May Be Purchased For Public Camp Site

Senate Group Seeks $500,000 To Acquire Acreage At Lake

BOOSTS HOUSE BILL

Senator McCarran Seen As Champion of Public Ownership

WASHINGTON— "Special consideration" by the forest service to consider acquisition of 440 acres of land at Lake Tahoe on the Nevada shore was urged by the senate appropriations committee last week in its support of a $1,340,000,000 agricultural department supply bill.

The committee acted after hearing forest officials testify that house approval of $50,000 for this purpose would permit acquisition of only a small portion of the desired lake frontage.

The house had included $50,000 in an increase for forest land purchases. The senate committee boosted this sum another $500,000 and informed the senate:

"In proposing an increase for acquisition of lands for national forests, the committee recommennds that the forest service give special consideration to the acquisition of land abutting on Lake Tahoe for the Tahoe National Forest in addition to the acquisition contemplated by the house bill."

L. F. Kneipp, assistant chief of the forest service land division, said it would cost about $200,000 to acquire 440 acres fronting on the lake. The land, he said, is in two sections—one having about 1,000 feet of frontage and the other about 2,400 feet.

Senator P. A. McCarran, Nevada Democrat, had proposed that at least $325,000 be made available and Kneipp said if this was allowed, the forest service would purchase an additional 70,000 to 75,000 acres, including a stand of 11,000 acres of Jeffrey pine, extending back from the lake to the top of the mountain range.

The acquisition of the lake frontage, Kneipp testified, would enable Nevadans using the forest to gain acess to the lake without passing over private property.

My Place In The Sun

by DOUG BARRETT

It just dawned on me that this section can play am mighty important role in building public morale by providing relaxation for the taut-nerved, war-harried outlander. The hustle and the hurry of the war program is going to have a telling effect of the dispositions of those our fellow men not so fortunate as to live above the world. It is our patriotic duty to advertise the Tahoe-Truckee-Donner Sierra region widely and wisely so that he who does the work of war may know where to find peace.

When we first came to Truckee, I got the impression that Dave Cabona was a hard-hearted businessman and his efficient, confident manner didn't give lie to that impression. Since then, however, that notion has been dispelled. Dave may be a good businessman—in fact I know he is—but he's a long hoot and holler from being "hard-hearted." You can usually judge a man's degree of tenderness by his attitude toward animals or children. Dave keeps alive one of the largest menageries of cats in the moutains. Year after year—as is the habit of the feline—the number is increased and yet is has been a long time since a cat of normal intelligence has starved to death within a wide radius of Cabona's furniture and sporting goods store. Then, too, regularly beatings and irregular feedings don't make his little black dog so sleek and well-rounded. All of which goes to prove that you don't have to be soft headed to be soft hearted.

The approach of that fateful day, May 1, is bringing out the gleam in the eyes of many an angler and, incidentally, is bringing out many an angler. For one, my boss is counting the days (28) until the season opens. Then there is Bert Weeden, the genial landlord of Wergeland House. During the winter he has acquired the knack of making his own flies and has accumulated quite a book of the synthetic insects. He can be seen most any day at Dan Smith's barber shop knocking out some fancy fly from bits of bird wings, string and other doo-dads. Last weekend two gentlemen from the San Francisco Flycasting Club were up just to bask in reflections and to get the club house ready for occupancy on May Day. So, kiddies, if you see grown men walking the street counting their fingers and muttering, don't be alarmed—they're very, very sane and and waiting for the sunrise of May 1, 1941.

Notes on a dirty envelope: Frank Brummund in town looking mighty good for a recent invalid....Roy Feathers' barber shop still covered with papers. Should be home soon.... This weather is mighty queer indeed ....Frances Polyanich has an energetic lift to her walk....I don't think this old world is half as bad as some of the people in it....

WINGS FOR AMERICA

by Don Wiley

MEMBER, AVIATION WRITERS ASS'N

Details of Germany's newest combat aircraft are growing increasingly difficult to obtain as the Luftwaffe tunes up for the big spring blitz. However, some details of four new types, already in action or soon to be hurled into action over England, have reached this country.

The new Nazi ships include two single-engine fighters, a twin-engine fighter and a long range bomber.

Aganst these ships (and to carry the war in the air to Germany) the Royal Air Force will have several new types of its own (discussed in this column recently) plus an ever-increasing swarm of American-built aircraft, a majority of which are being produced in California factories.

NEW FIGHTER SHIP

Most interesting of the new German ships is the Focke-Wulf single-engine fighter, tentatively designated as the Fw. 197. For in this job the Luftwaffe for the first time has fitted one of its fighters with a radial engine instead of the conventional (in Europe) in-line, liquid cooled power plant. Our information is that the Fw. 197 has a newly developed (1,500 horsepower B.M.W. 18-cylinder radial which supposedly gives the fighter more maneuverability as well as increased speed.

The other single-engine fighter is the Messerschmitt 115, described as a much faster successor to the stock Messerschmitt 109. The Me. 115 reportedly will be powered by the Nazis' first 2,000 hp engine...the new Daimler-Benz liquid-cooled 605, which has 24 cylinders arranged in an "X". Essentially, the 605 is a union of two D.B. 601's (12 cylinders each) on a common crankcase.

400 MILES PER HOUR?

Some sources claim the Me. 115 will have a top speed of something over 400 miles per hour, as against the Me. 109's maximum of 360 mph.

The Nazis' latest twin-engine fighter is the Focke-Wulf 187, several drawings of which have appeared in the British and American aeronautical publications.

The new long range bomber—the Heinkel 177—is unique in that its four engines are installed in tandems, driving two rather than the usual four propellers. The He. 117 will be used principally for cooperation with submarines in attacks on convoys to the west of Ireland, joining the Focke-Wulf four-engine "Kuriers" which are already active in this sector.

THE TRUCKEE JAIL

This public institution, small as it is, has been of incalculable service to the officers of Truckee. It stands in the rear of Grazier and Stoll's saloon, and is a solid building. It was completed in September, 1875, and the first prisoner was a rough known as William Hart, who was incarcerated for fighting and fined $40.—From Edwards' Tourist's Guide and Directory of the Truckee Basin (1883).

THEY RODE BY RAIL

Last January, the railroads gave a superb example of the efficiency of their service. This example wasn't a prepared stunt—it was made in the ordinary course of business.

During that month the railroads transported 207,000 members of our military forces without the slightest difficulty or interference with other traffic. More than 132,000 of these men were transported on 385 special trains. The remainder rode on regular trains.

To handle this unusual passenger traffic required 632 routings. These were made by the individual railroads involved, in cooperation with the Military Transportation Section of the Association of American Railroads. This Section was created last August to maintain close liaison between the military forces and the railroads of the country. Not only does it direct the movement of military personnel, but it also supervises the movement of supplies and materials for the huge military construction projects now underway in almost all parts of the nation.

In past periods, the railroads have demonstrated their ability to handle extraordinary quantities of freight without delay, confusion, or car shortages, and no they're proving an equal degree of efficiency in expediting the transportation of passengers. No industry is better prepared to meet the emergency demands of the time. And that preparation wasn't due to luck. It was the result of years of steady work in preparing for just such an abnormal period as we are experiencing today. Long before anyone was thinking of war abroad and unprecedented defense at home, the railroads were getting ready.

This industry exemplifies private enterprise at its very best. And right now it is quietly and efficiently performing one of the biggest and most vital jobs in its long and colorful history.

WHY SABRES RATTLE

Japanese Foreign Minister Matsuoka on his visit to Berlin, where he was feted with great pomp and ceremony, left no doubt as to the ultimate aims of his nation's policy. Rattling the well-worn sabre whose sound is now familiar to American ears, Matsuoka bluntly informed the world that America is a permanent enemy of Japan.

What he and other Axis spokesmen apparently hope to achieve by brandishing their sabres in America's face is to frighten this nation into submission and inaction by playing upon the fear of war. This was the tactic successfully exploited by totalitarian powers in Europe to paralyze the will and determination of other nations—nations which forgot that while agressive action may prevent war, passive action makes war inevitable, unless they choose to surrender. That lesson is clear. Or will the skeptic prove correct who said the only lesson that history teaches us is that we learn nothing from it?

The Week's Sermon

The Dictator

by HENRY OSTROM, D.D.
Member of Extension Staff
The Moody Bible Intitute of Chicago

TEXT—"He departed without being desired,....and they buried him."
—II Chronicles 21: 20.

Here is the old-fashioned dictator, and here is an epitaph to make us shudder.

Jehoram began to reign over the kingdom of Judah at the age of 32. Surely he had lived long enough to have seen failures round him. But a man can use 32 years to stifle conscience and become a slave of policy, tugging toward eternity advocating dead gods. His vanity may have caused him to seek shelter from his immorality by favoring idolatry, which proverbially was immoral. And by the time he was 32 he may have mistaken the flattery of his admirers for their approval. Marrying the daughter of Ahab proved no bracer for this man's morals.

Jehram reigned eight years. By the time he was inaugurated he had slain his brothers and several princes, taking over great treasures of silver and gold and fenced cities. To be sure, he did rsie up by night and with his helpers smite the Edomites. Yes, he "spread himself like a green bay tree" but he died unregretted. His demise had to be considered good riddance.

But some good men graced the pages of the history of that man's day. Elijah lived at that very time. He wrote a letter to King Jeroham, telling him that his body would be smitten with a disease eventuating in death. And that occurred, but it was the death of an undesired man.

Escaping disease, Elijah was miraculously fed in a place of solitude. Coming where a widow and her only child were about to partake of the last portion of food and then die, he supplied them for a year. And he skipped over death and ascended to glory in a whirlwind.

Christ never referred to Jehoram, the unregretted man. But Elijah's record was brilliant in the days of Christ, and its brilliance has not yet dimmed during nearly two thousand years more. He was not a dictator. He had no record for murdering relatives. His attainments were the result of his trust in God. If he had died he certanly would have been regretted both by the struggling poor and by the school of the prophets. But he missed the humiliation of death and was glorified. It pays to be God's humble man.

Have you discovered how smoothly your motor idles down with Finer Flying A?

SMOOTH AT EVERY SPEED

Try a tankful today and feel the difference at any speed

Out of one traffic speed into another. Speed up. Slow down. Now speed up again. At one of these traffic speeds your motor probably fails to run smoothly with ordinary gasoline. Perhaps it's at 25 miles an hour, or maybe at 45. Perhaps it balks only at slow speeds—at 10 miles an hour or 15. But you don't have to put up with this. Not any more. We have actually created a gasoline made to give you smoothness at every speed.

It's 7 gasolines blended into one. You've heard of most of them . . . Polymerized gasoline, Cracked gasoline, Alkylated, Solvent-refined, Natural, Straight-run and Reformed. These are all in Finer Flying A. And each is in there working to do a certain job. One keeps your motor smooth as you cruise at highway speeds. Another reduces knock at traffic speeds. Another smooths out the hard pull. All seven gasolines blended together give you new smoothness at every speed.

Find out. Try a tankful of Finer Flying A today. Discover the pleasant difference as you go through changing speeds. Speed up. Slow down. Go fast again—smooth at every speed.

Sincerely yours. You mothers asked us to put in comfort station facilities for youngsters. So, today, Certified Clean Comfort Station signs say—"For Baby, Too." There's a special seat for baby. And there is always a supply of tissue seat covers for extra protection. It's another Associated service.

Covering the Legislature

by ALLEN G. THURMAN
(Assemblyman for the Sixth District)

The reapportionment commitee of which your assemblyman is a member began its work of realigning the various congressional and assembly districts to conform to the new census last Friday night. The committee will meet again this Friday night and perhaps again Saturday.

Under the new census, California will be allowed three new congressmen and, of course, with its heavy increase in population Los Angeles and southern California are expected to get two of the new congressional districts.

The people of the mountain area are not so concerned as to where the new congressional districts go as they are in maintaining our own district, the Second Congressional district, in tact. Congressman Harry Englebright now represents 18 mountain counties, extending from the Oregon line to and including Inyo county. The interests of this large area are identical in that mining, stock raising, lumbering are the main industries of the area along with our natural resources.

As the writer pointed out a few weeks ago, to include valley counties in with the mountain counties would only tend to create conflicting interests which might prove harmful to the district as a whole if it included both mountain and valley counties. Those opposed to this theory oppose it mainly on the basis of population because of the fact that the present 18 counties of the second district total only 208,000 in population whereas the new base figure of population per district totals in the neighborhood of 300,000.

A new reapportionment bill, AB 2575, which has been introduced by Assemblyman Frederick F. Houser of Los Angeles, chairman of the committee, will finally be passed as to reapportionment. In this bill Assemblyman Houser took Butte, Sutter and Yuba counties from the first district and placed them in the second and took Tehama county from the second district and placed that county from the second district. Mono and Inyo were also taken from the second district.

Through a series of amendments which were adopted by the committee last Friday, your assemblyman, with the aid of Assemblyman Don Field of Los Angeles, placed all of the counties taken from districts one and two, including Mono and Inyo back where they were originally so that in this particular reapportionment bill, the status of congressional districts one and two (Lea and Englebright) remain as they are today. We feel that we have been quite fortunate in having these amendments adopted and hope that we may be successful in eventually keeping our congressional district intact as it has been for some thirty years.

In the new reapportionment bill which I have above referred to, the Sixth Assembly district remains the same as it is at present. In Chairman Houser's previous bill, Nevada county was placed in district two. In the new bill, Nevada county is back in the Sixth District along with the other Mother Lode and mountain counties.

In closing this week's column, we again invite the citizens and especially the school children and students to visit the legislature while it is in session. The Assembly is in session each afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock.

'Play Ball' is National Call

It's "Play Bayy, America!" and the first shot in the national blitzkrieg will be fired by the Pacific Coast League at 3:00 P.M. Saturday afternoon in Sacramento at Cardinal Field when the Sacramento Solons open the 1941 season with the Hollywood Stars. The mortality of office boys' grandmothers will be high but they are the only casualties in the American style of war which settles disputes in the honorable war on a basis of fair play and competition.

Baseball interest in the Capital City has reached a new high and a record crowd is indicated for the opening game as "Pepper" Martin polishes up his Solon shock troops for the coming campaign. The Sac office, while hopeful of a fine crowd, warns against people thinking the park is sold out and states that almost 10,000 general admission seats are available for the game.

Martin awaits the opening gun better prepared for the year than has any Solon team during the past ten years and promises the fans a good hustling club that will be a contender for the pennant. In the outfield he is flanked by Buster Adams and Lynn Kingi n what should be the best outfield in the league.

His inner defense has already been tagged as tops. At first base, Jack Sturdy, is expected to satisfy the fans who are used to good first basemen such as Sheely and Camilli who have filled that position in the past. Second base is in the hands of a great future star, Bob Blattner, whose play this spring slates his work for the year to be sensational. Frank Scalzi, a fine hitter and good fielder will make his debut Saturday at shortstop. And a boy who will be outstanding throughout the league in every department of the game, Don Gutteridge will hold down the hot corner.

The catching is in the hands of Jim Grilk who had an excellent season last year both behind the plate and at bat and a newcomer to the mask and mitt, Chet Wieczorek, a reformed outfielder. Last year Chet played outfield and was the most powerful hitter on the club. In an attempt to bolster that department he has been switched and will receive his baptism of fire after the season gets under way.

The coming through of two veteran pitchers has bolstered Martin's mound staff to the point where he might not ask the parent Cardinals for additional help. The two newcomers who have performed in great style are lefthander Al Hollingsworth and George Turbeville. Teamed up with the effective Tony Freitas, Bill Schmidt, Nubs Kleinke and George Munger as well as several promising youngsters; Pepper's first line of defense promises to stand up and share the success expected of the club.

As the panzer divisions emphasize speed, so does the 1941 Solons and they are touted not only as the fastest club in the league but the fastest in baseball. Martin's style of baseball is dirty uniforms and hard play as compared to fifth columnists and saboteurs....Yes, it's baseball time and the American Way.

Solon Pilot

Johnny "Pepper" Martin, colorful major leaguer who was imported to manage the Sacramento Solons and to revive baseball interest in the capitol city, is looking forward to the Solons first game of the 1941 season Saturday against the Hollywood All-Stars at Cardinal Field in Sacramento at 3 p.m.

SUGAR BOWL— The weather man flopped down onto the top of Mt. Lincoln with a rush of wind and blindning snow Friday night. Saturday he was still ranting and raging about the Donner Summit area sending our snow depth unexpectedly back up to a full nine feet—it had already dwindled to eight—a very gratifying state of affairs.

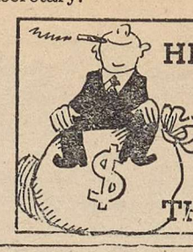

Most of Friday our winter sports director was seen leading in the direction of Mt. Lincoln carrying bundles of bamboo poles and followed by others equally heavily laden. Object, the setting of the downhill race course for the state championships to be held next Saturday.

Bill Robinson—Canadian northwest ski champion—met with disaster on the Class A downhill course Friday afternoon. Bill—as fast a runner as they are made—took the first control in mid-air, landed on treacherous snow 20 feet below and ended up in one of the most terrifying egg beaters it is possible to imagine. Bill's skis were busted and his ankle will make it impossible for him to enter the Silver Belt Trophy race for which he had planned to stay down in this neck of the snows.

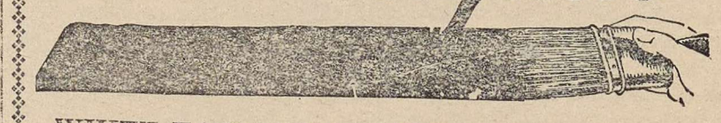

Speaking of the Silver Belt, a wire has just been received from Otto Lang in Sun Valley asking Friedl Pfeifer, Sig Engle, Fred Iselin and Fred Iselin be entered in this event. If Pfeifer is here, Durrance is certain to be here also in order to knock off that one and one fifth seconds by which Friedl beat Durrance last year.

The SBSC annual championships were held on Saturday. Graham Zink carried away the tin ware, winning the DHO Trophy and the President's Cup.

At 6:30 Saturday evening there was held a business meeting of the Sugar Bowl Ski Club, at which time many important points of policy were discussed and amendments to the by-laws suggested and approved. A subcommittee for the election of officers was set up and Mortimer Fleishhacker was appointed chairman by the president. At the meeting this committee, held after dinner and attended by Mrs. Burnett Turner, Mary Elizabeth LaRue, Paul Prom and Bill Graham, the following nominations were made to come into effect at the next annual dinner dance: A. A. Jones to continue as president; Mrs. Janet Fleishhacker, vice president; Thor Ellingson, vice president; Al Schlesinger, treasurer, and J. Wiley, secretary.

NOTABLE VISITS

Oct. 17, 1878, General Phil Sheridan visited Truckee, and also Lake Tahoe. At Truckee he had an informal reception at the Keiser House.

Gen. Grant came in to Truckee on Oct. 3d, 1875, and drove the stage a good portion of the way from Truckee to Tahoe.

President Hayes and party took breakfast at the Truckee Hotel Sept. 8, 1880.

In May, 1877, Dom Pedro (exiled emporer of Portugal and Brazil) and party passed a few hours in Truckee, before visiting the lakes.

General Garfield when making his tour of the Pacific Coast took breakfast with J. F. Moody, en route to Lake Tahoe.—From Edwards' Tourist's Guide and Directory to the Truckee Basin (1883)

: University of Nevada Is Sixty-eight :

The University of Nevada a few weeks ago celebrated the sixty-eighth anniversary of its birth as a functioning institution.

It was in March 1873 that Governor Lewis R. Bradley, by stroke of his pen, made the University of Nevada a reality instead of a name when he signed the legislative act authorizing the establishment of the institution at Elko.

Eight years before almost to a day the people of the territory of Nevada had written into the constitution of the state-to-be a provision that there should be a state unversity.

But it was not until 1873 that the commonwealth's legislators actually felt that the demand for higher education was sufficient to warrant actually establishing the university and providing that it begin operation.

Under the legislative act of that year the university was located at Elko on the condition that the city provide grounds and a suitable building.

The condition was met in June, 1874, and the university officially opened its preparatory department in October with seven pupils in attendance and with D. R. Sessions as principal and the only teacher.

The course, which covered two years, included subjects required for admission to the freshman class of the colleges of that day, in addition to optional courses in French and German.

A graduate of Princeton University from which he held two degrees, Principal Sessions had obtained his own education only by dint of long years of study under difficulties, and he had great sympathy with the pupils of the struggling university in the new state.

Teaching all the subjects offered, Sessions studied each pupil as an individual and sought to develop him along the line of his talents, a philosophy of education now regarded highly by most progressive educators.

In 1879 Sessions resigned the principalship to serve as state superintendent of public instruction. Later he became a newspaperman, then helped H. H. Bancroft in the preparation of his history of the west, and finally became a member of the bar and claims attorney for the Southern Pacific railroad.

The main university building at Elko, a fine brick structure, was completed during the winter of 1873-1874 and a little later the second building, a frame dormitory, was built.

Succeeding Sessions as principal was W. C. Dovey of Silver City, who had been a member of the board of regents from 1874 to 1878. After a few years service, his place was taken by T. N. Stone, a graduate of the New York State Normal School and formerly a county superintendent of schools in California.

In 1883, E. S. Farrington, later federal district judge for Nevada was made principal, and he was followed by A. T. Stearns, who headed the preparatory school until the university closed its doors in Elko and removed to Reno, where it reopened in 1886.

The only important addition to the curriculum of the new university in Elko was made in 1882 when a mining department was established with J. E. Gignoux, a young graduate of the school if mines at Freiberg, Saxony, employed to give instruction in assaying and mining engineering.

The number of students enrolled each year in the university at Elko ranged from 20 to 30, some of them being in attendance only part of the year.

No students were graduated during the Elko period, but, after the removal of the institution to Reno, when it became a collegiate institution in fact as well as name, the first normal class was graduated in 1889 and the first degrees were awarded fifty years ago this spring in 1891.

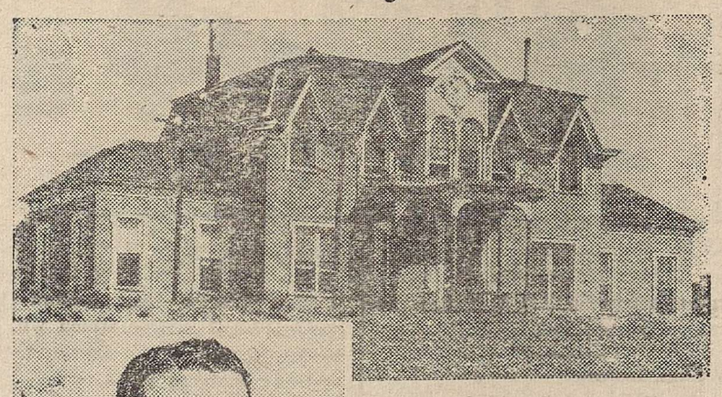

On account of the small attendance at Elko, the legislature of 1885 decided to remove the institution to Reno, since the population in the western part of the state was greater.

In March 1886 the new univresity opened its doors to students in the preparatory and mining departments on its new campus north of Reno, with J. W. McCammon as principal and A. H. Willis as instructor in mining and assaying. With onyl the first floor of Morrill hall finished, classes met amidst the ring of hammers and the whirr of saws.

In the fall of 1887, Morrill hall now compete, the University opened its doors for its first full year as an institution of collegiate rank with Dr. LeRoy D. Brown as its president. Nearly fifty students enrolled.

In 1940-1941 the enrollment has reached a total of about 1,200 for the year.

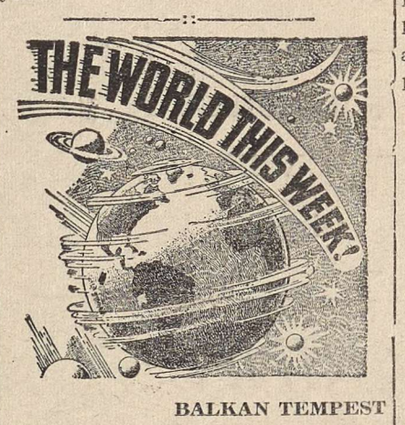

When University Was at Elko

Sixty-eight years ago the University of Nevada was established at Elko by the state legislature. D.R. Sessions, left, was the first principal, and the new institution was housed in the building pictured above.

BALKAN TEMPEST

Overthrowing its pro-German leaders, a rebellious Yugosalvia under the leadership of 17-year-old King Peter II joined company with Greece in boldly defending its sovereignty. That challenge of a nation of 15 million persons against Nazi might hands Germany another war front, when that front is already stretched from Scandinavia to the Black Sea. The necessity of 11th hour resistance in the Balkans, as well as the conquest of Rumania and Bulgaria, might have been avoided, had Balkan powers unitetd in time instead of blindly placing faith in a neutral do-nothing policy. Nevertheless, the victims and vanquished will blame Germany and not themselves for the disasters which have befallen them, which means the number of Europe's people who hate Adolf Hitler and hope for his downfall, increases with every conquest he makes. As current overlord of a continent of smouldering rebellion, Hitler faces a potential war from in every conquered country, and the greater the menace of those fronts the loger the war continues.

LABOR SUPPLY

Stating that more than three-fourths of the workers in defense industries are in plants operating only one shift, War Under Secretary Patterson said production "could be vastly expanded if skilled labor were available in numbers sufficient to add second shift". Director Knudsen, Office of Production Management, called upon labor and industry to cooperate in an expanding "training-in-the-shop" program.

A Day That's Gone

A day that's gone—happily and forever—from the calendars of many sensible housewives is old Blue Monday, the weekly washday: the pestiferous span of eight or ten hours of back-breaking labor.

It's gone because of the coming of the modern laundry with its capacity of rendering quick and efficient service. Try us next time on the family wash and see how much you save in time and money and work.

Rapid and Expert

Those two words sum up the secret of our success and the service we render. Modern equipment, expert workmanship, and a pride in our labor enable us to give the sort of service that satisfies. All charges reasonable.
